The First-Time Manager - Quick reference

Practitioner course | Trainer: Daniel Okafor

The key ideas

- The shift from doing to leading: Your job is now other people's results

- What to let go of first: Tasks others can learn to do

- One to ones that matter: Weekly, short, and about them

- A simple one to one structure: Check in as a person

- Delegation without disappearing: Match support to the person and the task

- Feedback that lands: Describe the behaviour

- Common mistakes in the first year: Avoiding the hard conversation

- Your next steps: Book your next three one to ones

Words to know

One to one: A regular private meeting between a manager and a team member, centred on the team member.

Delegation: Handing over a task with clear expectations, support and agreed check-ins.

Feedback: Specific information about behaviour and its impact, with a suggestion for what to do instead.

Check-in: A planned point at which you review progress on delegated work.

Outcomes

- Run one-to-ones people find useful

- Delegate without disappearing

- Give feedback that changes behaviour
